A WEEK OF SHOWERS.

We have had about a whole week of splendid showers, over three-fourths of an inch of rain falling, improving the condition of pastures and range. The Provo choir came up on Saturday evening and gave a grand concert in the Heber Stake house, under the leadership of Professors Boshard and Lewis. The musical was very much ap-preciated by the people.

Severe Thunder Storms - Horse Killed-Cordon Family Keunion.

Rigby, Fremont County, Idaho, Aug. 10.—Some pretty severe thunderstorms have recently crossed this valley. A few days ago a fine horse belonging to Mr. Eph. Matthias was struck and killed by lightning. A washout in the mountains rendered the water of Snake river very turbid and thick for two or three days. A heavy rain visited us on the night of the 7th inst.

Sheriff H. H. Cordon and family, of Boxelder county, have been visiting here recently. On the evening of the 9th, the four chilren of the late Alfred and Emily Cordon, with their consorts and children, met at the home Mr Jas. T. Chandler and had a very plea-sant social reunion. The number of the family present was thirty-four. Supper, ice cream, and other refresh-ments, games and social chat caused evening to pass very pleasantly People are busy harvesting, weather has become cooler.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

It has been estimated that 77 per cent of the victims of coal-mine explosions lose their lives through being shut off from the outer world by after damp, and it is thought that in most instances some miners are not reached by the poisonous gases for at least an hour or two. The problem of promptly getting oxygen into the mines is therefore an important one. The Walcher pneumatophore, an oxygen-generating bag capable of supplying respiration for an hour or more, is claimed to have saved sixteen lives in a Prussian colliery; and hree English mines have united in establishing an experiment station for testing this and other apparatus, and giving instruction in rescue work. Part of the equipment of this station is a room that can be filled with a poisonous atmosphere. Sociologists see in the motor-car a possible way out of more than one of our difficulties. Madame Schmahl suggests its use as a kitchen, which would travel over a regular route, leaving ready-cooked meals at the homes of its patrons, and would thus reduce the laor of the household without taking away any of the pleasures of the fam ily life. A perambulating restaurant for supplying suitable food to the sick is already in operation in Berlin.

The relative efficiency of osmium lamps and those using carbon has been practically tested. On one circuit a 25volt osmium lamp gave the same illum-ination as a 100-volt carbon lamp, but used only 40 per cent as much current; and in another trial an osmium lamp gave a light of 20 candle-power, while a carbon lamp of the same consump-tion gave only 6 candle-power.

A specimen taking us back to the beginning, if we may accept the conclu sion of many antiquarians, is the preserved old ship found at a depth of seven feet in the bed of the River Lea, whose waters have been turned aside for the London waterworks excavations. It is thought that this vessel may have formed part of the fleet with which King Alfred the Great fought against the Danes. It is about 50 feet long is entirely of oak except the elm keel, the ribs are secured to the sides by wooden spikes but the timbers and porboards are fastened with primitive nails, and the calking is done with felt. A remarkable influence of fron sulphate upon plant growth has been re-ported by a French experimenter, M. E. Henriot. A partial failure of a crop of kidney beans in 1899 was found to be due to ravages of worms, snails, etc., and last year the seeds were soaked in a one per cent solution of iron sulphate as a protective measure, the treated seeds being planted in the first and being planted in the first and third of a plot of six rows. The plants in the treated rows showed striking increase in size and productiveness, while those in the second row were much bet. ter than in the rows entirely unprotected. On repeating the experiment, it was found that the treated seeds gave plants nearly twice as tall as s soaked in water and more than four times as large as seeds planted dry, and the crop was always larger. Treated peas showed an increase of ten per in yield. Similar results have been had with turnips, cabbages, carrots, and other plants, the seeds being soaked for a quarter of an hour in the solution, and only in the case of salsify was the effect unfavorable. A marked increase in the size and number of knots on the roo's suggests that plants from the treated seeds assimilate nitrogen from the air much more readily than others.

Hitherto the largest concave vessel that could be blown from glass has had a capacity of about 25 gallons, but Paul Sievert, of Dresden, claims to be able to make bath-tubs and large kettles of glass by his new method. The liquid s poured upon a cast-iron plate, to which the quickly-cooling outer edge is made to adhere, while most of the mass sinks as an elongated sack to a table beneath. Compressed air is conveyed through a cylinder into this sack, the table on which the bottom rests be ing gradually lowered, and when the desired size is reached the upper edge is released by removal of a retaining strip from the iron plate.
